In addition, very young children may refuse food, appear abnormally drowsy or agitated, and react with unusual body movements or sounds when handled.

Tissues were flash frozen on dry ice and stored at 80°C until further analyses.